Newsletter

Volume 28, Issue 3

March 2002

From the editor's desk ...

This issue of the Newsletter (we need to find a better name – any suggestions?) introduces a new feature – position announcements; one for the University of Calgary and another for the IUSSP. One of our student members asks whether we, as a discipline, and our academic institutions are prepared to accept the anticipated increase in enrolment as a result of the “double cohort” in Ontario. There is certainly food for thought in her article – appearing under The Student Corner. The Humanities and Social Sciences Federation of Canada is changing its name! Please see the report from the President of the CFHSS (the new name) for details on this and other important items from the Federation. You will also find a report on the FCD conference that was held in Ottawa in December. Our upcoming meetings in Toronto promise to be very stimulating and exciting – see the program at the end of this Newsletter.

The Federation of Canadian Demographers

The Federation of Canadian Demographers (FCD), in collaboration with its two affiliate associations, the largely English-speaking Canadian Population Society (CPS) and the French-speaking Association des démographes du Québec (ADQ), organized its triennial Symposium, “Demographic Futures in the Context of Globalization: Public Policy Issues” on December 14 and 15, 2001, at Carleton University, Ottawa, Ontario. The Symposium was sponsored and financially supported by Statistics Canada, Department of Citizenship and Immigration Canada, Carleton University (Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences and Faculty of Public Affairs and Management), CPS and ADQ. The program included the following sessions: Population Implosion in Industrialized Countries; Immigration and International Exchanges; Impact of Globalization on Population Change and Economic Development; Family Transformation, Gender, and Work; Mortality, Morbidity and Health; Population Aging, Human Resources and Social Security; Population Policy: Funding Issues and N-S Collaboration. Dr. Joseph Chamie (United Nations, New York) and Dr. Colin Mathers (World Health Organization, Geneva) were keynote speakers; their talks were entitled, “Larger, Older, Urbanized and Diversified: World Population in the 21st Century”, and “The Global Burden of Disease: Local, National and International”, respectively. The organizing committee included: Bali Ram, Chair (Statistics Canada and Carleton University), Roderic Beaujot (University of Western Ontario), Rosemary Bender (Statistics Canada), Ellen Gee (Simon Fraser University), Victor Piché (Université de Montréal), Jean Poirier (Université de Montréal), Mark Rosenberg (Queens University) and Marc Termote (Université du Québec). The FCD plans to publish the Symposium Proceedings. For further information, please contact: Bali Ram, President, FCD (e-mail: rambali@statcan.ca).

Personal and Professional Activities:

Investigators and their partners involved in the SSHRC strategic grant program on Social Cohesion in a Globalizing Era met in Ottawa on February 15-16, especially to discuss policy implications of the various research done to date. Representatives of 15 SSHRC-funded projects and of several federal government agencies participated in the workshop. Rod Beaujot, Evelyne Lapierre-Adamcyk and Zenaida R. Ravanera attended for the Family Transformation and Social Cohesion (FTSC) project. The FTSC's brief statement on policy implications and a slide presentation that provides an outline summary of the statement may be accessed through the project's website at:

<http://www.ssc.uwo.ca/sociology/ftsc/Conferences.htm>.

Eric Fong was elected to be a board member of the North American Chinese Sociologists Association and was appointed as the Secretary for the organization. The President of NACSA is Yanjie Bian. Other board members include Min Zhou, John Logan, Dudley Poston, Zai Liang, and Philip Yang. Surprisingly, many of them are demographers.

Céline Le Bourdais is continuing as director of the Quebec Interuniversity Centre for Social Statistics (QICSS). The QICSS has obtained a major four years grant from the Strategic Groupings Program of the Fonds de recherche société et culture (formerly FCAR). This grant will be used for the support to researchers and training activities. The Centre currently hosts about 30 researchers using detailed datasets from Statistics Canada social surveys. In collaboration with the Centre interuniversitaire d'études démographiques (CIED) and the Centre d'études ethniques des universités montréalaises (CEETUM), the QICSS has also obtained a three years funding from SSHRC to offer a Summer school on longitudinal data analysis. In addition, between January and May 2002, the Centre has scheduled a series of four lectures on the analysis of complex design survey data.

Susan McDaniel, will give a Presidential talk at the spring 2002 meetings of the CSAA in Toronto as President of the Canadian Sociology and Anthropology Association. The title will be announced at a later date. In January 2002, Susan was invited to a special conference in Oxfordshire, UK to advise policy makers from the UK and the European Union, on the policy implications of an ageing society. The event was held at an English country home, resplendent with antiques and art. Susan was invited to serve on the International Advisory Boards for The British Journal of Sociology (January 2001 to 2006) and the Journal of Sociology (Australia, from 2002 to 2005).

Susan was invited to present the following papers:

“New Wrinkles: Old Age in a New Age,” International Day of the Older Person Lecture Series, University of Victoria, 1 October 2001.

“Innovation Fetishism or the Capture of Innovation Potentiality in Social Environments?” Paper invited for a Workshop on Alliances, Networks, and Partnerships in the Innovation Process, Program of Research in Innovation Management and Economy (PRIME), University of Ottawa and Statistics Canada, 28 February and 1 March 2002, Ottawa.

“Generational Division of Welfare and Intergenerational Justice,” Pacific Sociological Association Meetings, invited for a Presidential session, Vancouver, April 2002; paper invited by Statistics Canada, 10 April 2002.

“Hidden in the Household: Now It’s Men in Mid-Life,” Invited for the International Symposium on Reconceptualising Gender and Ageing, University of Surrey, UK, June 2002.

“Tangled Hierarchies and Strange Loops: Challenges Of/To a Risk Society of Intimate Relations,” Plenary paper invited for World Congress of Sociology The Social World in the 21st Century: Ambivalent Legacies and Rising Challenges, Brisbane, Australia, July 2002.

Edward Ng is the proud father of Ellie Ng, born October 19, 2001. Ellie is another example of Edward’s excellent contribution to demography. Edward has also published an article as an essential part of a larger project in estimating the total lifetime cost of treating colorectal cancer using the POHEM microsimulation model in Canada (see Recent Publications). The model has now been extended to study the effect of population-based screening in Canada for colorectal cancer, the third most common malignancy affecting Canadian men and women and the second most important cause of cancer-related mortality.

K.V. Rao has been elected as Vice Chair and Chair-elect for the Asian Advisory Committee of the US Census Bureau for 2002-03. The Asian Advisory Committee is one of the several racial advisory committees appointed by the Secretary of Commerce to advise the Census Bureau on matters related to race questions, race tabulations, and analysis of racial data. Dr. Rao is also a member of the methodology working group of American Community Survey that is to replace the census long form used in the US Census in 2010.

Roger Sauve of People Patterns Consulting has written and published a new report, ONTARIO PEOPLE - Trends and Projections. This is the fifth in a series of provincial reports with previous reports dealing with BC, Alberta, Saskatchewan and

Manitoba. Roger also prepared a book review on Rod Beaujot’s Earning and Caring in Canadian Families which appeared in the ISUMA magazine Winter 2001. Roger prepared two other reports for the Vanier Institute of the Family; CONNECTIONS - Tracing the links between jobs and family and The Current State of Canadian Family Finances Annual Report 2001. ## Questions About The Double Cohort

Walking down the bustling hallways of an Ontario university today, one of the many demographic questions I ponder is what will university be like when the "double cohort" arrives? It is a fascinating "hot topic" for the Canadian Population Society's Newsletter since with the elimination of grade 13 from Ontario curriculum, more students than ever in the past will be coming to Canadian universities in 2003. Where normally 35,000 students enter universities every year in Ontario, in 2003 that number will increase to approximately 57,000. Reading the front page news of an Ontario university paper, the construction as part of the Super-build funded projects of the province to provide additional instructional facilities is evident – it is front page news! How prepared must a university or a department be in order to properly teach these students? Will introductory courses become a priority for academic professors, to the neglect of specialized areas, like population studies courses or graduate students? If professors find that their own research time is minimal now, how will they be affected when both undergraduate and graduate students are knocking on their doors requesting more of their time. Will they be able to juggle professional research with added time devoted to adequately mentoring and teaching the increased number of budding students?

Even outside the walls of the universities, one must ask how prepared are the communities in which these students will be situated? Food, housing, clothing, the basic necessities of life, must be addressed as they will likely be affected.

Ontario will most likely not be the only province noticing an influx in the intent to register, as these students will flock to other provinces as far away as British Columbia. Are the other provinces prepared for increased enrolment? Will these non-Ontario universities lure these bright eyed students to their institutions? If Ontario cannot provide academic facilities or faculty to these individuals, will they register at other universities? As demography teaches us these individuals are the most mobile when it comes to age-patterned migration. No Canadian universities will be unaffected by the bountiful number of applicants in 2003.

Even with governmental assurances and monies being spent to alleviate any concerns arising from this issue, the preparedness for the double cohort is of great interest. With assumptions that the double-cohort will remain in Ontario universities, great investments are being placed on the heads of the young individuals. These young scholars will soon be walking university halls. There are many questions and points to think about demographically for this is an ever nearing future facing all of us who are at a university, live near a university and/ or remember what it was like to walk the halls of a bustling university.

News from the CFHSS ...

Patricia Clements, DPhil, FRSC, President

At its November 2001 meeting the General Assembly of the Federation approved several significant and exciting changes. Firstly, members approved a name change for the Federation. It will henceforth be known as: Canadian Federation for the Humanities and Social Sciences/Fédération canadienne des sciences humaines. Secondly, members approved the establishment of the Canadian Endowment for the Humanities and Social Sciences. The goal is to raise $11 million dollars over the five years of the campaign. Dr Robert Merrett of the University of Alberta has been named Vice President Development and will lead the fund-raising campaign. The goal is to place the Federation on a secure financial footing and to promote support for the humanities and social sciences. For further information, contact Dr Merrett at robert.merrett@ualberta.ca.

For Canadian universities, these are important days. Federal — and some provincial — initiatives are beginning at last to address the needs of our cash-starved institutions. In the 2001 Federal budget the government took two decisions with long-term impact when it comes to research and education in Canada. In funding the indirect costs of research, it has taken an historic step forward, a step which will help to ease the difficult situation in Canadian universities. But, at the same time, the long term impact of the government's funding decision for the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada is cause for serious concern. While the $9.5M increase to SSHRC's budget was welcome news, the Federation had looked to this budget to create balance in the government's funding of research. By increasing NSERC and SSHRC budgets by exactly 7% each, the Federal Budget actually increases the disparity between Granting Councils leaving SSHRC with only an 11.5% share of the total money provided to Granting Councils in Canada. We will continue our efforts on your behalf to make the case to government of the need to strike a balance when it comes to funding SSHRC.

In this context, we must do everything to ensure that the voice of our disciplines is strong and clear and that it be heard. This is a moment for the Federation to give critical attention to its communications strategy, both internal (so that we consolidate our collective strength) and external (so that we have impact in decision-making). This year, the Executive and the Staff of the Federation are putting into place a Strategic Plan aimed at achieving the following goals:

- strengthening member associations;
- raising the profile of the Federation on university campuses;
- developing the effectiveness of our partnership with SSHRC; and
- reinforcing the Government Lobby and increasing awareness of the humanities and social sciences in interested communities.

All of these goals support the overall mandate of the Federation. They are designed to give clear purpose and strength to our collective voice. I would be grateful to have any comments or input on these issues (c/o jawright@hssfc.ca).

Other Federation activities over the coming year include:

- Congress 2002 at University of Toronto.
- Continued monitoring of the impact of the Canada Research Chairs and other funding initiatives on humanities and social sciences.
- Continued participation in Tri-Council Policy on the Ethical Conduct for Research Involving Humans. At our AGM, Mr. Tim Flaherty, Director, Ethics Division of Health Canada, presented his views on the governance of the ethics of research on humans. One of the suggestions was the formation of a national body to ensure the accreditation of research ethics boards and the education of board members and researchers. Mr Flaherty will undertake a formal public consultation process in the new year and hopes to have a report completed by March 2002.
- Creation of two Task Forces, one on Scholarly Associations and the other on the New Generation of Scholars.
- Consultation with SSHRC on the Attendance Grants to Scholarly Associations.
